

HER WITH THE HUMBLE SPIRIT

She stares at him, daring him to shoot - so he does, fearing what grows inside of her that can never reflect him.

His eyes long dead, his heart retired.
Here take this moment and it will be the end of the beginning of his end.

She metamorphosises into stars and shapes and light.

She can be all that he is yearning for.

Yet, he gave up
when she never gave in.

They welcome her with outstretched arms
and loving smiles.

All types of beings coming together to worship. And they do.

Her with the humble spirit
is the most beautiful.

She smiles as they melt into each other.
They are engulfed in all space and time -
that really means not a thing.

She is complete. She is home.

She is autumn.

© Leigh-Chantelle 27/11/08

Inspired by "Kneeling before autumn" the novel written by Adam J Murray.